Welcome to Adams County

Driving through Adams County, you will quickly realize why just over 103,000 people call this home, and why millions of visitors continue to make our area a destination! The beautiful rural countryside offers an abundance of bounty, views and quaint towns, while the town of Gettysburg provides a deep connection to the events of 1863 through the battlefield and museums that tell the story of life over 160 years ago. No matter if you are a local or a visitor, there is plenty to see and do in Adams County.

Adams County's history dates back prior to the Civil War. In 1800, the area now known as Adams County, located along the Mason-Dixon Line in southcentral PA, separated from York County. Following a contentious separation that took years to finalize and approve, the area was named in honor of John Adams, President of the United States at the time.

As the county evolved in the years following the battle, up to present day, the industries are very similar 160 years later. Top industries include tourism and agriculture, while manufacturing and healthcare employ the largest number of employees. With such a diverse economic base, it's no wonder Adams County is so attractive for business owners to set up shop and for families to put down roots.

Business & Industry

With a diverse business base, access to major highways and rich history, it's no wonder businesses are eager to call Adams County home. Manufacturing employs the largest percentage, over 17%, of the workforce in Adams County, while the second largest industry based on employment is healthcare and social assistance, 12%. Nearly four percent of the population is employed in the agriculture industry, though many of the manufacturing operations and other businesses support the industry.

The county is situated well for future development, with businesses that need to ship or move goods benefiting from Adams County's central location. Harrisburg, the state capital, is located just 36 miles north of Gettysburg, the county seat. The outer suburbs of Washington, DC and Baltimore are within an hour's drive from many county communities. Additionally, Adams County is within a day's drive of approximately 60% of the US and Canada's population.

Major roadways located within, or in close proximity to Adams County make our area attractive to for new business to locate here. Access to local and international airports add to the county's appeal for ease of access. Once here, public transportation in and around Gettysburg continues to grow, connecting Adams County to Harrisburg, and Gettysburg to Hanover through New Oxford, helping ease congestion and create access to jobs.

Health Services

Healthcare is one of the fastest growing industries in Adams County. Residents have access to state-of-the-art healthcare facilities staffed by highly trained professionals, from hospitals and specialists to long-term care facilities and counseling services. There are also a wealth of human service agencies that contribute to the overall quality of life.

The largest health care provider, WellSpan Health, offers hospital, primary and specialty physician care, and urgent care services in locations across Adams County. WellSpan Gettysburg Hospital began in 1921 as the Annie M. Warner Hospital, and today it is a nationally recognized acute care community hospital with 76 rooms, including a new emergency department with 18 private treatment rooms.

UPMC Hanover also offers Adams County residents a wide variety of services at several locations around the county. If you need to visit their hospital, UPMC Pinnacle Hanover has 93 private rooms available and offers extensive services utilizing state-of-the-art technology, while maintaining the personalized care of a community hospital.

Both health systems utilize express or urgent care facilities, which are walk-in centers for minor ailments that can help reduce emergency room visits and wait times. These can be found in all of the communities around Adams County for ease of access.

It takes more than hospitals and doctors to care for an aging population, and Adams County is home to a number of long-term care facilities that are committed to delivering quality care to seniors. Plus, the Susquehanna Regional Transportation Authority, better known as rabbittransit, provides paratransit services, door-to-door transport for people with disabilities who are not able to ride fixed-route public transportation.

For those in need, nonprofit organizations provide free and affordable health services. Family First Health provides comprehensive health services to people seeking accessible and affordable quality care in a local community health center, while Mission of Mercy offers free health and dental care and prescription medications to the uninsured, underinsured and those who “fall through the cracks” of the health care system. Many other organizations offer other assistance and support.

Special thanks to WellSpan Health and UPMC Pinnacle Hanover for assistance with this article.

Shopping & Dining

When you live in a rural area with a population that swells by more than three million people throughout the course of the year, having a variety of retail stores and restaurants is a must. While Gettysburg is the hub of shopping and dining, outlying communities also offer unique experiences and fabulous finds.

Shoppers can enjoy an afternoon at The Outlet Shoppes at Gettysburg taking in a variety of local shops and national chain stores. Plus remember, there is no tax on clothing or footwear in the state. If antiques are more your speed, head to the undisputed antiques capital of southcentral Pennsylvania, New Oxford. Charming shops offering unique wares line the four streets radiating from Gettysburg's Lincoln Square, while other history-rich downtowns of Fairfield, East Berlin and Littlestown offer their own opportunities for shopping and dining.

You can also take an adventure on the county's winding back roads and be rewarded with a variety of offerings of family-owned stores and farm markets that offer everything from homemade pies and candy to dry goods and nursery plants.

Adams County is overflowing with new and old businesses offering an increasingly varied palate of specialties in every nook. Enjoy offerings from historic taverns or try a new spin on an old favorite at restaurants with a focus on locally sourced meats and produce. Traditional comfort favorites continue to be popular choices, too, at family and chain restaurants.

Beyond food, entrepreneurs are creating delicious beverages from craft beer, wine and fresh roasted coffee, to hard cider and distilled spirits made from locally grown ingredients. You can also take a drive to experience Destination Gettysburg's Pour Tour or Crop Hop.

No matter what you're looking for, there is something for everyone in Adams County's retail stores and restaurants. Whether you're trying something for the first time or venturing to a timeless favorite, we welcome you to discover the tastes and products that make Adams County special.

Arts & Recreation

There's always something happening in Adams County, whether you're ready to submerge yourself in civil war history or set out for an outdoor adventure. From art galleries, history museums and Broadway-quality theaters to snow adventures, world-class golf courses and hiking and biking trails, there is no shortage of activities for the whole family.

Browse works of art from artists who recreate Civil War battle scenes, or enjoy something more modern from creative local artists at the Adams County Arts Council. There are also several opportunities to make your own art, such as handcrafted wooden signs and pottery, or sign up for one of a variety of local classes to learn about wine pairings, ballroom dancing or jewelry making.

Take in a popular production at the Gettysburg Community Theatre in the heart of downtown Gettysburg. A renowned professional summer stock theater, Totem Pole Playhouse offers a summer season of hit shows starring Hollywood and Broadway actors. The theater is nestled in the Caledonia State Forest, which offers its own array of outdoor activities on South Mountain. Minutes from the Appalachian Trail in bordering Franklin County, Adams County has tons of outdoor adventures. Hike or bike scenic trails or saddle up for a horseback ride on the 6,000 acres of the Gettysburg National Military Park.

Winter offers its own fun on the slopes at Liberty Mountain Resort, while spring ushers in golf season on the county's popular greens. Warmer weather also brings a variety of festivals and events, including the not-to-be-missed Gettysburg Wine & Music Festival, held each September.

Adams County is full of action, whether you're a history buff, art admirer or outdoor adventurer. You're invited to experience life in Adams County and discover the harmony of modern living in a historic area.

Education

With nearly 104,000 residents in Adams County, close to 21,000 of those are under the age of 18. Students are served by six public school districts, with each district guided by a board of directors that is elected by their residents. Parents who would prefer their children have a private school education have a variety of options, including two charter schools and many parochial schools.

Adams County Technical Institute (ACTI), provides secondary career and technical education programs for five participating high schools. Students are prepared for entry level employment or post-secondary education in high-skill, high-wage, in-demand careers. Current offerings include culinary arts, criminal justice, allied health, diesel technology, building trades and maintenance, early learning and computer networking.

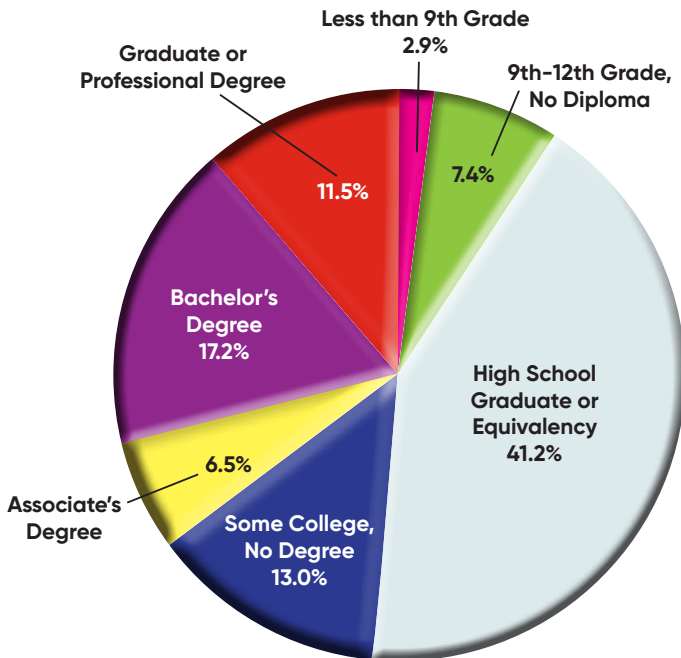

The Adams County Economic Education Foundation, in partnership with The Chamber of Gettysburg and Adams County, supports students by bridging the gap between the business and education communities to prepare students for higher education and the workforce. Each year the organization hosts the Adams County Career Fair for tenth grade students. The organization also facilitates an open dialogue between the county's major industries and school districts, building, renewing and strengthening these important relationships for the good of Adams County's future workforce.

Upon graduation from the secondary school system, students have a variety of quality, nearby options for post-secondary education. Choose what best fits your needs, an associate's degree, certificate program or career degree, a liberal arts experience or access to one of the largest state university systems.

Adams County residents have access to the robust Adams County Library System to support lifelong learning. Whether you're searching for a hard copy book, an e-book, need internet access to apply for a job or want to discuss your favorite reads with other bibliophiles, the library system offers many resources to enhance your life.

Human Services

Our community is supported by an extensive network of human service and civic organizations focused on addressing the needs of those facing challenges. These organizations have some of the most dedicated and hardworking staffs and volunteers focused on providing cultural experiences, mental and health support as well as housing, all working together for the betterment of Adams County.

Solutions to community problems takes a combination of donations, time and effort. Whatever your talents and interests, there is likely an organization that would be grateful for your support, whether it's helping at the food pantry and shelters, supporting senior citizens, mentoring youth, or caring for abandoned animals, there is an opportunity for you to give back and lift up members of our community.

Volunteering decreases stress, increases confidence and expands your connections, all while strengthening Adams County. Consider what you may have to offer and start giving back!

However, if you are in need, Adams County has support services available and ready to assist. Use the following list to find the services you or a loved one need, or contact The Chamber, 717.334.8151 for help finding the right organization to connect with.

- Low Cost Spay and Neuter
 - Microchipping
- FREE TNR Assistance for Adams County Residents
- Full Adoption Services

Events & Meetings

Adams County hosts hundreds of events and meeting each year, from national conventions to intimate weddings. While our central location makes us a convenient choice, it's the small-town charm and expertise of our service providers that make us a favorite destination.

Gettysburg offers everything from traditional hotel meeting accommodations to unique locations like historic homes and churches, rustic barns and out-of-the-box event spaces, like the Gettysburg National Military Park Museum and Visitor Center. Beyond the walls of an event or meeting space, award-winning golf courses, memorable culinary experiences and historic battlefields complement your itinerary and ensure attendees can enjoy a family trip, too.

The quality and variety of services offered here help ensure your event is a success. Skilled professionals can handle every special detail, no matter the size of your event. Economical pricing helps ensure you get the most from your experience.

Because of our rich history, Gettysburg is the perfect place to develop the leadership skills of your team. Leadership training specialists take the experiences from the Civil War battlefields, as well as from the lives of Presidents Abraham Lincoln and Dwight D. Eisenhower, as the basis for training used by Fortune 500 companies and government agencies.

Contact the chamber office at 717.334.8151 as your starting point for great recommendations.

Homes & Real Estate

Adams County is a favorite location for people seeking a place to call home. Whether it's the call of the gently rolling hills dotted with fruit orchards or the charming historic towns and Civil War Battlefields, Adams County offers the perfect mix of scenic beauty, rich culture and family-friendly atmosphere to make it the perfect home for people in any stage of life. Plus its central location, excellent schools, advanced healthcare options, strong sense of community and stable economy make real estate in Adams County a secure investment.

Having a variety of local small, mid-sized and large building contractors offers a variety of options whether you are designing a new home or renovating an existing space. Numerous skilled trades professionals offer many services to make your projects special.

There are also many options for those seeking a 55+ active community. Whether you are looking to downsize or locate near loved ones, housing options vary from one-level homes with minimal maintenance, to those offering any upgrade you desire. Residents of these communities can choose to live a stone's throw from the golf course, select a community with a state of the art fitness center and outdoor tennis and pickle ball courts or participate in any number of planned activities.

In addition to a great location and available services, Adams County's tax climate is a favorable one. Pensions are not taxed in Pennsylvania and Adams County's taxes are lower than most surrounding counties. As a result, many people who work in these surrounding counties or in Maryland choose to make Adams County home.

Farmers have driven the local economy and produced quality food for an ever-expanding world population since Adam's County's beginnings. Today agriculture remains at the heart of our economy as one of the county's top leading economic drivers.

Adams County's unique agriculture industry could be described as diverse. There are the fruit farms that we're known for, but also the traditional dairy, livestock and crop operations that round out the trade.

The keystone of Adams County's unique agriculture industry is the Historic South Mountain Fruit Belt, known as America's Orchard. The industry is supported by an impressive network of agribusinesses like equipment dealers and processing plants. Fruit growers sell their produce directly to consumers at farmers markets and farm stands, to local manufacturers that distribute value-added products like juice and applesauce across the world, and to distributors that ship quality fruit near and far.

The fruit belt is home to rich soils perfect for grape cultivation. A growing number of wineries offer a unique taste of Adams County with stunning vistas and great entertainment. Not to mention the increasing number of local cideries, brewers and distilleries taking advantage of the bounty of crops harvested locally!

We are proud to show off our thriving agriculture industry by celebrating the blossoms in early spring as well as the bounteous harvests of the fall at numerous fairs and festivals all around Adams County. Everyone is encouraged to get involved and can even "pick your own" and enjoy following your food from the farm straight to your table. With many local chefs and restaurants taking the opportunity to utilize the freshest ingredients they can find, you are likely to enjoy the local harvest when dining at your favorite eatery, too.

Countless people seek out Gettysburg for its rich Civil War history and enjoy visiting the local gift shops, museums and galleries as part of their trip. Adams County is also known to antique collectors for providing amazing treasures, and to outdoor enthusiasts for offering many ways to enjoy the picturesque vistas.

Gettysburg has a population of approximately 8,000 year-round residents and swells well beyond that during summer travel months. However, visitors can enjoy the area during any season. While most activities take place Spring, Summer and Fall, one can also enjoy a growing number of winter activities, such as skiing, snowboarding and holiday celebrations.

Shortly after the Battle of Gettysburg in July 1863, tourism began when those seeking information descended upon the town to see firsthand the devastation, assist with the thousands of wounded and recover their loved ones lost during the battle. All required places to stay, eat and a guide for their travels. Local citizens responded, thus the beginning of the local tourism industry.

Today, visitors to Gettysburg and Adams County drive the local economy with tourism being among our top industries. Tourism jobs and various taxes generated through tourism provide support to the local community. Businesses and residents work hard to create a top-notch visitor experience offering warm hospitality to all who travel through the region.
