EMPLOYEE OWNED. CUSTOMER APPROVED.

MEMBER SPOTLIGHT

WESLEY WAREHIME, CEO

Aero Energy

What are your primary responsibilities?

As CEO my primary responsibility is to setup Aero Energy for success. Our CEO position is foremost about leadership and putting our expert associates in the right positions to succeed. We measure success by attracting new customers to our existing customer base and retaining those customers for years to come. To accomplish that goal, it's about all the people within the Aero organization succeeding and satisfying our customers.

How do you stay engaged with trends you see in your industry?

In this business, federal and state regulations are always changing along with a constantly evolving marketplace. All of our different business segment leaders are engaged through trade associations or federal and state organizations related to fuels, HVAC, plumbing, electrical and transportation trends. For me personally, leveraging technology be it through email or another channel, keeps me informed with all of our industries.

What motivates you to jump out of bed every morning?

Learning and building on what came before me. I have a vital role in growing a unique business. Few other businesses in Adams County have a history like Aero Energy. I owe all the people who came before me that helped make the organization what it is today that dedication. I never want to short change our customers and I want success for our shareholders, employee owners, and somewhat selfishly, myself as well.

What leadership advice would you offer to other business and organization leaders?

One bit of advice I received early on in my career that has always stuck with me is, "leaders are powerful to the degree in which they empower others." If you want to grow your organization you need to be present and aware of what your team needs to succeed.

As someone doing business in Adams County, how does the chamber help you?

It's easy for me to get into a working groove and focus only on the things immediately in front of me. Being involved with the Chamber has provided me opportunities to meet other leaders in Adams County and become more aware of what is occurring in my corner of the world.

As a business in Adams County, how do you give back to the local community?

Many of our employees are involved throughout the community in various volunteer efforts. A point of particular pride is seeing our trucks in the annual Make-a-Wish Truck Convoy. We also contribute funds to many different charities in not only Adams County, but throughout south central PA and Maryland.

When you're not working, where in Adams County do you like to spend your time?

I currently reside in Adams County with my wife and two daughters. With COVID this year we spent a fair amount of time trying to stay outside hiking around Gettysburg. My girls particularly enjoyed climbing around Devil's Den and Little Round Top. I also enjoy golfing, so I spend as much time as I can on the golf course.

ADVOCACY UPDATE

MORE TAXES ARE NOT THE ANSWER SENATOR DOUG MASTRIANO (R-33)

Our state economy remains fragile as a direct result of Governor Tom Wolf and his administration's flawed pandemic policies. What is his solution? More taxes, sadly. But we should not be surprised. After all, the Governor has touted these unpopular concepts for years. Once again, as part of his annual budget pitch, Wolf is pushing a severance tax on the natural gas industry. These companies are already subject to a plethora of business fees and taxes. New levies would crush jobs. Also, Wolf wants to increase the personal income tax to fund education. After shutting down businesses, by picking winners and losers, Wolf now wants to raise taxes on people who are still lucky enough to be working. What he isn't acknowledging is the fact that the General Assembly has funded schools at record levels - with no tax hikes - since I've been in office. We should be talking about economic development and business recovery...not new taxation. It is time to move on from these bad ideas and start having real discussions about fixing our economy. As the chair of the Senate Intergovernmental Operations Committee, the panel will continue to explore regulatory reform, red tape reduction and streamlining government in 2021-2022.

PANDEMIC A FOCUS OF ANNUAL STATE BUDGET HEARINGS REPRESENTATIVE DAN MOUL (R-91)

The House Appropriations Committee is now conducting its annual budget hearings, following the governor's budget address earlier this month at which he proposed to increase spending by $3 billion, impose a whopping 46% Personal Income Tax hike and introduce a new energy tax. As far as I'm concerned, that budget proposal was dead on arrival. If there was ever a time to not raise taxes, this is it. The committee hearings will uncover what expenditures are truly necessary and help us to develop a budget by June 30 that will address the core functions of government and keeps state spending under control. The COVID-19 pandemic is looming over this year's budget discussions. Mitigation efforts have had a negative impact on expenditures and revenue. The slow rollout of vaccines is further delaying our quest to get back to normal. While we are at the mercy of the federal government for our allocations of vaccine, we are taking steps to ensure those allocations, once received, are distributed quickly and effectively. The General Assembly established a COVID-19 Vaccine Joint Task Force to improve Pennsylvania's response to the pandemic - at the community level and statewide. I also co-sponsored legislation to enlist the PA National Guard to help in setting up community vaccination sites in each region of the Commonwealth.

QUALLY ANNOUNCES 2021 PRIORITIES

COUNTY COMMISSIONER MARTY KARSTETER QUALLY

After 2020 we could all use a hard reset but, so far 2021 just isn't panning out that way. While it is clear our local and national economic recovery will be a long and slow process that is no reason for us to lower expectations in 2021. It just means we must be more deliberate with our energy. For my part I am setting five focus areas for this year. They are:

- (1) working with community partners to expand affordable broadband access,
- (2) supporting the @Home in Adams initiative,
- (3) planning and obtaining funds to build a substance abuse recovery house for women,
- (4) providing election education for the public focusing on processes used locally and statewide to keep our elections safe and secure,
- (5) creating a horticultural based vocational rehabilitation program at the prison.

Of course, each of our individual priorities must be balanced with doing our part to keep the residents and economy alive during the covid-19 pandemic. As a county commissioner this primarily entails keeping open fast and accurate channels of information between medical experts, state officials, and local residents. Stay safe and keep wearing those masks. Join me on Facebook at Marty Qually for Adams County.

RISING ENERGY COSTS

COUNTY COMMISSIONER JIM MARTIN

After analyzing the actions of Joe Biden, I am concerned for our retired citizens and those with lower incomes. Experts predict that his actions will lead to rising utility and energy costs. This relates to Biden's pledge to achieve a net-zero (emissions) green electricity grid. California is an example of Biden's pledge. CA has areas that have rolled over to green energy as primary power and have decommissioned natural gas power generation plants.

The green energy was not reliable and power outages occurred along with higher utility rates. Additionally, Biden's actions have disrupted fuel distribution by terminating the Keystone XL pipeline permit and have stopped oil and gas production by banning fracking. These actions have already pushed the markets to increase our nation's energy and fuel costs. In turn power plant electricity generation will be more expensive and utility bills will skyrocket. Those on fixed and lower incomes will suffer financial hardships. Adding to the burden are higher manufacturing costs, and higher energy costs for government operations will raise taxes. Join me in getting our legislators to put the brakes on Biden's cost-increasing actions. We need to protect our senior citizens from hardships that do not have to exist.

GIVING BACK DURING A PANDEMIC: WHAT YOU CAN DO TO HELP

Laura McMahon, Executive Director at the United Way of Adams County

It is no secret that our daily lives have been challenging for the past year with having to make ends meet while abiding by the precautions in place due to the COVID-19 pandemic. Many businesses and employers have found it difficult to keep afloat, which in turn has negatively impacted the workforce and has left many underemployed or unemployed. The need for the generosity of others has increased dramatically in order to help our neighbors who are struggling right now. Along with many other local partnering agencies, the United Way of Adams County's goal is to help those in need of crucial day-to-day basic resources right here in our community.

So, how can you help?

Monetary donations to a local charity organization are a quick, easy way to make a difference, no matter what amount. The United Way of Adams County offers many flexible options for giving - your gift can be given directly to the United Way or it can be designated to a charity of your choice. Your dollars fund programs that:

- provide shelter to families without a home
- food to eat for elderly on a limited budget
- school supplies for children entering school

There is no gift too small, either - small gifts make big impacts, too.

Helping others doesn't need to come as a cash contribution. The United Way and many other organizations in our community are always seeking donations, such as:

- winter clothing
- food items
- basic commodities like toiletries.

Volunteering your time is another way you can give back.

The United Way was built upon a foundation of volunteerism - from our governing board of directors to our volunteers who give their time to prepare income tax returns for low-income households in our area. Our volunteers make a significant difference in the lives of many people every day.

A huge thank you goes out to all who have given support to help our neighbors in need - you are definitely making a difference in the lives of others who are facing hardships right now. And for those of you who want to help but may be unsure how, give us a call. We can direct you to the right opportunities for you to help keep our community strong!

UWAC works to improve lives by mobilizing the caring power of communities through programs and initiatives that ensure our children enter school ready to learn and graduate on time, that every family is financially secure and that everyone has good health.

AMBASSADOR SPOTLIGHT

KIM FLICKINGER, BRANCH MANAGER

Members 1st Federal Credit Union

How long have you been a member of The Chamber of Gettysburg & Adams County?

I have been a member of the Gettysburg & Adams County Chamber for two years.

Why did you join The Chamber of Gettysburg & Adams County?

At Members 1st, community involvement is an integral part of our core values. With a footprint spread across Central PA, being a member of a chamber in my branch's local community is important to me so that I can give back through volunteerism and form meaningful relationships with local businesses.

What committee do you currently volunteer with?

I currently serve on the Ambassador Committee to help spread the word that the Chamber is a great place for businesses to meet, network and make connections.

What is your current occupation?

I currently serve as a branch manager with Members 1st Federal Credit Union.

What do you love most about the Financial Industry?

I have been in the financial industry for over 40 years. In 2017, I joined Members 1st, and it was the best decision I've ever made, professionally. We have a mission to support our members, associates and communities through support, empowerment and meaningful relationships. We are always looking for new initiatives, and I am grateful to work for an organization that gives me an opportunity to support our local community.

How do you define success?

Success, for me, is delivering unparalleled experiences to our members, and receiving referrals based on their feedback. I also define success by the opportunity to build relationships with my team and assist them in reaching their full potential through servant leadership.

If you could choose anyone as a mentor, who would you choose?

I feel grateful to have a mentor right within our own Members 1st family. Our CEO, George Nahodil, is truly one of a kind. He genuinely cares about our associates and is committed to putting our members first. He was named "Game Changer" by the Central Penn Business Journal in November 2019 as the most admired CEO of a nonprofit business with more than 100 employees.

What's one thing - either industry-related or not - you learned in the last month?

Over the past year, we have all had to adapt. In the past month, I have learned greater appreciation for those around me - who I work with, our members and our local community partners. Additionally, I've learned not to take anything for granted and appreciate simple pleasures, like taking a vacation.

What's the first concert you ever attended?

The first concert I attended was a KIX concert in Biglerville back when my husband and I were dating.

What's one thing you want to try but haven't gotten around to it?

Even though I have a very outgoing personality, I have never tried karaoke, but it's on my bucket list.

WORKFORCE DEVELOPMENT

Pennsylvania Free Enterprise Week - Preparing tomorrow's workforce!

For years we've supported a program that arms high school students with the tools to be our next great employees - Pennsylvania Free Enterprise Week (PFEW). PFEW brings together students and businesspeople for a powerful hands-on learning experience where students are immersed in the exciting world of modern business and free enterprise. The goal is to properly prepare our young people for the demands of the 21st century workforce.

At PFEW, students make the same decisions real executives make as they run a simulated manufacturing company. Each team is paired with a volunteer business mentor who imparts invaluable real-world perspective as they explore all facets of business operations and develop the skills that today's employers seek. Teams are responsible for two judged presentations where they must demonstrate in-depth knowledge of all facets of business operations. The week is highlighted by Speakers delivering inspiring messages directed at the students' personal and professional development. An ethics case study, other business-related activities and the college experience round out this exciting week. Since 1979, more than 46,000 young Pennsylvanians and countless PA companies have benefitted from this unique program.

There's no more urgent work than preparing our young people for careers in our community, but why PFEW? In the words of 2019 PFEW graduate Brina Cartagenova: "This week at PFEW will resonate with me for years to come, for it is an eye-opening experience for Pennsylvania youth. Arriving as wide-eyed, eager children and leaving as empowered, confident leaders, PFEW students go through an academic cultivation like no other." Brina describes PFEW perfectly - cultivating our next great generation of empowered, confident leaders. No other model educates students like PFEW, and that's why we proudly support it.

Every student attends PFEW on a fully tax-deductible $625 sponsorship donated by a business, foundation, organization or individual, but real value of PFEW is immeasurable. I encourage you to provide these vital sponsorships for our local students and, if possible, volunteers for the sessions. FFEE is an approved Educational Improvement Organization through the PA Educational Improvement Tax Credit (EITC) program, and all programs are eligible to receive EITC funding.

FFEE offers two additional programs that prepare students for success and provide incredible value to our young people and our business community. The Stock Market Game™ (SMG) teaches students in grades 4-12 about investing and financial literacy, and the Speaker Series helps students explore careers and fulfill state mandated Career, Education and Work (CEW) standards. All Foundation programs have one goal in mind - preparing our young people for successful careers in Pennsylvania. If you would like to learn more about PFEW or their other educational offerings, please visit the Foundation's website, www.pfew.org, or contact Scott Lee, vice president of marketing & development for the Foundation for Free Enterprise Education at (814) 833-9576 ext. 8, or scott@pfew.org.
