MEMBER SPOTLIGHT

HEATHER HENNING, OWNER

Remarkable You Wellness, LLC

Tell us about your business.

My business is unique as it is built on compassion, honesty, and meeting people where they are in their wellness journey. As a client, YOU are empowered to decide what path you choose to reach your wellness goals. I want you to tell me your story about your wellness journey. What are your challenges and your goals? I am there to listen, educate, support, and present you with options based on our conversation, intake forms, and any assessments for a path to wellness and you decide which path you want to travel. Your path may incorporate homeopathy, nutrition, supplements, herbals, a comprehensive detox, a wellness plan, as well as other natural solutions including far infrared sauna, ionic detox foot baths, and Emotion Code. I provide you with options and you are always in control of YOUR journey.

How do you stay engaged with trends you see in your industry?

I stay engaged with trends in natural health by continuing my education. I never stop learning. Natural health and helping people live a remarkable life are a passion of mine and knowledge is empowering. Even though it is not mainstream and has even been referred to as "new", natural health modalities have been around for over 6000 years! One of the oldest written documents, The Ebers Papyrus, dates back to 1550 B.C.

What motivates you to jump out of bed every morning?

The opportunity of a new day and a chance to thrive motivates me to jump out of bed every morning! I chose living a remarkable life filled with time spent with my family and friends, specifically my husband and my 3 boys! I love when my body feels good, my energy is up, and I can play outside with all of them. Those are the best days! I also love that each day brings with it the opportunity to help someone feel better and gain back their wellness so they too can thrive! And each day is an opportunity to meet someone I have never met and share in their journey!

Do you have any advice for new business owners?

My advice to new business owners is to hold on to the passion that first inspired you to go into business so that you enjoy what you do every day, and it does not become something negative, yet stays something that lifts you up. There is a reason you began in the first place. Keep positive and hopeful even when things are not going the way you anticipated. There will be ups and downs, learn to roll with them and stay hopeful and kind through it all. Do not let anyone crush your spirit! Negative people/thoughts (including your own) have no place with you and your new business. Surround yourself with people who support you and want you to succeed!

What makes Adams County such a great place to do business?

Adams County is a place with roots. The people here create a community that feels like family. I have grown up in Adams County and love the values, friendliness, support, and pride of this community. It is a great place for local, family businesses. We all help one another!

When you are not working, where in Adams County do you like to spend your time?

When I am not working, you can most times find me at home with my family spending time playing in the yard, enjoying a campfire and an outdoor movie. Otherwise, we love spending time in Gettysburg. We enjoy the biking and hiking trails throughout the battlefield. The kids enjoy the Junior Ranger activity guide from the Gettysburg National Military Park visitor center. We also love walking around downtown Gettysburg no matter what time of the year it is. But one of our favorite times is at Christmas, making time for a visit to the Tillie Pierce House Inn for hot cocoa, cookies, and a reading of the Night Before Christmas.

ADVOCACY UPDATE

THE BORDER CRISIS IS A LOCAL CRISIS CONGRESSMAN JOHN JOYCE (R-13)

As Pennsylvanians know firsthand, the border crisis is a local crisis. I am working to protect Adams County from the deadly flow of illicit drugs that cross the southern border and wind up on our streets, spurring addiction, disrupting the workforce, and tragically claiming the lives of our friends and neighbors.

Border agents seized more than 900 pounds of fentanyl, which can kill in trace amounts, last month alone. To equip law enforcement and the justice system with tools to keep fentanyl off the streets, I support bipartisan legislation to extend the emergency scheduling of fentanyl analogues.

Defeating the drug crisis and supporting Pennsylvanians in recovery truly requires a team effort. Every day, it is my privilege to work alongside health care providers, emergency responders, educators, law enforcement, and community leaders to combat this deadly cycle. Recently, I met with Gettysburg Police Chief Robert Glenn to discuss his team's work to counter the drug crisis and to offer my support.

I am immensely grateful to all of the Pennsylvanians who are working together on the frontlines to uphold the law, stop bad actors, support families, and keep our communities safe. It is an honor to work alongside you, and I look forward to our continued partnership.

GETTING BACK TO WORK REPRESENTATIVE DAN MOUL (R-33)

As we continue to emerge from the COVID-19 pandemic, many business re-starts have been hampered by a limited number of available workers. Many have blamed generous unemployment compensation benefits and other assistance for disincentivized workers from re-entering the workforce.

During the pandemic, the Wolf administration suspended many state regulations, including one requiring those who receive unemployment compensation benefits to continually demonstrate they are looking for a job. With businesses opening and unable to operate due to the lack of available help, it is necessary to reinstate this requirement to compel people to go back to work. I recently joined my House colleagues in co-sponsoring legislation to do just that.

House Bill 508 would end federal unemployment programs that are hampering our economic recovery. While it may have made sense for some workers to stay home last spring when the pandemic was raging, we are in a far different situation now that most residents have been vaccinated and mitigation restrictions have been lifted. This legislation aims to send a message that now is the time to get back to work.

The number of available jobs now is great and varied. Some employers are even offering cash, bonuses and other incentives to attract workers. As unemployment resources dry up, competition for jobs will increase and workers who wait could find a far more limited range of opportunities from which to choose.

THE CHAMBER REPRESENTS LOCAL BUSINESSES IN HARRISBURG

With businesses across the Commonwealth continuing to struggle as the economy re-opens, Carrie Stuart joined over 35 local chambers from across the state for PA Chamber Day 2021, co-hosted by the PA Chamber of Business and Industry and the Pennsylvania Association of Chamber Professionals. The event provides a forum for constructive dialogue between local chamber officers and policymakers on key issues important to the state's business community and the best ways to improve the Commonwealth's business climate.

"Chamber Day helps educate chamber leaders on the issues facing legislators. It's a two way exchange with one focus - improving Pennsylvania's business climate and competitive edge," said Stuart.

In a departure from past Chamber Days, this year's event was held virtually. Over the course of two days, participants met with several state elected officials, including Governor Tom Wolf. Panel discussions also included representatives from the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, Pennsylvania's Independent Fiscal Office and the Associated Pennsylvania Constructors. The event featured policy discussions on a variety of critical topics, including: the upcoming 2021-22 state budget; Pennsylvania's economic recovery from the COVID-19 pandemic; transportation funding and energy policy on both the state and federal level.

ADAMS COUNTY HIGH SCHOOL SENIORS RECOGNIZED FOR SELF IMPROVEMENT

The Adams County Economic Education Foundation honored senior students who demonstrated significant improvement over the course of their high school careers with the Dwight D. Eisenhower Senior Self Improvement Award.

The award, given to up to five students from each of Adams County's six school districts, recognizes students who improved their grades, attitudes, attendance, behavior and service to others while in high school.

"We're pleased to honor these high school seniors, each of whom have overcome adversity to become good students and make the best of their education," said Adams County Economic Education Foundation Executive Director Carrie Stuart. "These award winners are our future workforce, and any local business would be fortunate to employ them because of their strong work ethic, determination and growth."

Top performers from each school district are Brianna Kittinger, Bermudian Springs High School; Jordan Dunlap, Biglerville High School; Rebecca Baker, Fairfield Area High School; Kaylee Johnson, Gettysburg Area High School; Haley Limmer, Littlestown High School; Bailey Biggerstaff, New Oxford High School.

Jasmyn Brown, New Oxford High School, was awarded the Resiliency Award, which recognizes a student who, despite significant obstacles, maintains an outstanding academic record.

Other honorees from each school district are:
Bermudian Springs High School - Tyler Pifer, Haley Sullivan and Emily Volheim
Biglerville High School - Gewell Richards, Juan Pulido-Reyes, Montell Green and Perla Munoz
Fairfield High School - Haley Hebenton
Gettysburg Area High School - Ethan Auer and Dylon Bratt
Littlestown High School - Serenity Bennett, Jessica Evans, Emily Kern and Jesse Hawk
New Oxford High School - Tessa Myers, James Serviss and Anthony Withrow

Five students from each school district are eligible for the award. The selection committee considers a completed application, past and present report cards, attendance and discipline records, two letters of recommendation, and a written statement by the student. The top performer from each district is awarded $500. The students may spend the money as they wish.

The non-profit Adams County Economic Education Foundation bridges the gap between the business and education communities to prepare students for higher education and the workforce. More than 30,000 students in Adams County have benefited since 1991.
