ADVOCACY UPDATE

HOW TO HELP RE-OPEN PENNSYLVANIA ADAMS COUNTY COMMISSIONER, JIM MARTIN

The American economy has endured strained global supply chains and record inflation during the past year. Adams County's biggest industries are agriculture and agricultural manufacturing. Supply chain disruptions and inflation have particularly hurt these sectors. Manufacturers must now choose between rejecting orders due to limited supplies of essential aluminum or threatening to drive off business as they increase their prices to match skyrocketing price of raw materials. Farmers are then not able to receive the tools and equipment they need to repair broken machinery. These delays subsequently contribute to less profitable operations, reducing their bottom line.

A major contributor to the current situation are the Section 232 tariffs that are impacting the price of steel and aluminum and related sectors. Manufactures to consumers are paying the price for this tariff legislation. These tariffs threaten approximately 41,000 good paying jobs across the state and the loss of billions of dollars to the state's economy. By eliminating Section 232 we could help this lucrative sector grow and protect our domestic labor force.

Ensure the president cannot use our livelihoods as a means of advancing his agenda. Take a stand to expand trade, helping to re-open Pennsylvania.
