Educator of the Year Awarded

The Gettysburg Adams Chamber of Commerce's General Membership Breakfast was held May 16, at the Lodges at Gettysburg. The breakfast featured presentations from students of the Introduction to Manufacturing & Business course (ITMB) and the 2013 Educator of the Year Award was presented to special education teacher, Amy Beckman, of Conewago Valley School District.

Mrs. Beckman devotes her time and efforts into tutoring students during lunch and after school. She communicates effectively and frequently with parents concerning issues related to the growth of the whole child, not just academic growth. She also collaborates with both 7th and 9th grade teachers to share information and ensure her students' smooth transition into the next grade.

Mrs. Beckman uses her passion for teaching to move students to high levels of achievement through skill, dedication, determination, communication, and faith in knowing that all students can achieve at high levels. She takes on numerous responsibilities outside of her job requirements.

Her enthusiasm for the craft of teaching and commitment to the enhancement of the teaching profession makes her an outstanding educator. Congratulations Amy!

From the Desk of... the Chamber President

Whew, what a busy month May was!!

The month started off with the first annual Small Business Appreciation Week where we partnered with Gettysburg Rotary for the kick-off program on Unemployment Compensation Law. Next, the Small Business Administration (SBA) and Adams County Economic Development Corporation (ACEDC) joined efforts to provide information on Access to Capital. Our partnership with the Small Business Development Center (SBDC) brought us a great program on Time Management for the Wednesday session. And, thanks to Representative Will Tallman and the Hanover Area Chamber of Commerce for their support in securing speakers for the session on Healthcare Reform.

The week ended with Monica Gould sharing ways to help motivate our workforce, and four businesses/leaders were recognized for their efforts (see page 9 for photos of recipients). This proved to be a jam-packed week of great information!

May is also a busy time with our partner organization, the Adams County Economic Education Foundation (ACEEF). With the end of the school year, it's time to recognize graduating seniors in the Mentoring program, and recipients of the Dwight D. Eisenhower Senior Self Improvement award program. You can see all of this year's student recognitions on pages 10 and 11.

And, as you saw on the front page, the Educator of the Year recipient was announced at the May Membership breakfast program. The program for this breakfast is the final project for students that participated in the Introduction to Manufacturing and Business course, offered through a partnership between the ACEEF and HACC. Students share their experiences from the business visit portion of the class.

It is because of our numerous partnerships throughout the community that we are able to connect you to great educational opportunities to support your business.

And, last but certainly not least, congratulations to all of the award recipients!!

Carrie S. Stuart

Gettysburg Foundation

In The Footsteps of Leaders: Suite of Premier Programs

The Gettysburg Foundation's tailored In The Footsteps of Leaders suite of programs relate timeless, inspiring leadership lessons to the challenges organizations face today, whether in a small or large business, government organization, non-profit, or educational institution. Participants experience a full day on the Gettysburg battlefield, learn from Gettysburg's most famous leaders, and are inspired by the courageous actions and decisions of soldiers at every level.

With over 100 clients served since 2007, the Gettysburg Foundation's In The Footsteps of Leaders Leadership Program has become a premier source for clients worldwide who recognize the significance and value of Gettysburg as a definitive tool for professional development at all levels. Rather than focusing solely on the military strategy of the battle, the Leadership Program emphasizes an essential precept of decision-making: the people. The Leadership Program is flexible depending upon the client's needs. The basic program spends a day on the Gettysburg battlefield investigating the leadership lessons from 1863. The program can be expanded to include a behind the scenes evening in the Gettysburg National Military Park Museum and Visitor Center and an in-depth facilitation process.

The newly developed 2.5 day In The Footsteps of Leaders Executive Program is specifically designed for executive teams from Fortune 500 companies and similar organizations to build and develop senior leadership skills and increase effectiveness by exploring the battle through the eyes of key Gettysburg commanders. The fast-paced, ever-evolving complexities and opportunities that executive teams face – the need to inspire, engage and execute best plans, and adeptly lead their organizations – are as applicable in the 21st century as they were in 1863 at Gettysburg in the heat of battle.

While gaining a deeper understanding of the decisions made during the Battle of Gettysburg, Executive Program participants spend considerable time focusing on the challenges and opportunities facing their own organizations through a structured and comprehensive curriculum guide accompanied by intensive facilitation.

Introduction to Manufacturing & Business

Nicole Small, Mike Sykes and Anders Nordberg held the attention of everyone in the banquet room of The Lodges at Gettysburg on May 16. They made their final presentations for the Introduction to Manufacturing and Business course at the Chamber's general Membership Breakfast. They related their experiences in the course and their exposure to seven area businesses. The course had begun in February at HACC-Gettysburg with five weeks of classroom instruction with Dr. Chris Esgar. They explored the theories and practices used in today's business world. Then the learning really started when the rubber hit the road and the students had the privilege of being introduced to seven local businesses and their top management face to face. The class met with company Presidents, CFO's and CEO's in area Boardrooms and received tours of facilities that few in our community have experienced. The student's walked away with a greater understanding of just how day to day business is conducted in a variety of industries and local industries have a glimpse of just who their future leaders or competitors may be! ## Are You Aware?

The Federal Reserve Board announced that the redesigned $100 note will begin circulating on October 8, 2013. This note, which incorporates new security features such as a blue, 3-D security ribbon, will be easier for the public to authenticate but more difficult for counterfeiters to replicate.

To ensure a smooth transition to the redesigned note when it begins circulating in October, the U.S. Currency Education Program is reaching out to businesses and consumers around the world to raise awareness about the new design and inform them about how to use its security features. More information about the new design $100 note, as well as training and educational materials, can be found at www.newmoney.gov.

"When Good Leaders Lose Their Way"

The keynote speaker is Mark Whitacre who came to public attention in 1995 when, as president of the BioProducts Division at Archer Daniels Midland (ADM), he was the highest-level corporate executive in U.S. history to become an FBI whistleblower. For three years (1992–1995), Whitacre acted as an informant for the FBI, which was investigating ADM for price fixing. In apparent retaliation for his role as an informant, ADM investigated Whitacre's activities and, upon discovering suspicious activity, requested the FBI investigate Whitacre for embezzlement. As a result of US $9.5 million in various frauds, Whitacre lost his whistleblower's immunity, and consequently spent eight-and-a-half years in federal prison. Whitacre's story inspired the film "The Informant," which stars Matt Damon.

Your Take Away will include:

- The ultimate real-life lesson in personal and business ethics
- The need to think long-term in all of your personal and business decisions
- The value of accountability
- About ALWAYS doing the right thing

WHY LOCK IN NOW?

Electricity and natural gas prices are trending upward, and are expected to continue to increase throughout 2013 and 2014. Now is an exceptional time to consider a fixed-price supplier contract that locks in today's price for one to five years. Even if your current contract hasn't expired, you can lock in today's prices to begin when your current contract ends.

Electricity

- According to the Edison Electric Institute, necessary upgrades to the United States' electricity transmission infrastructure will cost $54 billion from 2011 to 2014.
- The United States Energy Information Administration (EIA) reports that increased use of natural gas for electricity generation will drive electricity prices higher as gas prices increase.
- Temperatures in late Spring and Summer 2013 are forecast to be above normal in most regions of the United States, which will increase demand for electricity.

Source: PJM Day Ahead Averages ($/mwh)

This chart shows that price "bottoms" were hit in 2012. Future prices for 2013-2017 are slightly increasing. Contact 800-520-6685 to take advantage of today's energy market opportunities.
