Darlene A. Brown Named Citizen of the Year

Darlene A. Brown, known throughout the community for her work to ensure every citizen has a safe, clean and affordable place to live, is the Outstanding Citizen of the Year, recognized for her boundless service to others.

"Darlene strives to make this world, particularly Adams County, a better place for all," said Carrie Stuart, chamber president. "She is dedicated to our community and lives her life to help others. She is the embodiment of an outstanding citizen, and the chamber is pleased to recognize her tireless work."

Brown is committed to the mission of the three agencies where she has served as executive director for 22 years: Pennsylvania Interfaith Community Programs Inc., Adams County Housing Authority and Turning Point Interfaith Mission. She attends all Gettysburg Borough Council meetings and workshops and was recently named to the Gettysburg Borough Zoning Hearing Board.

As vice president of the chamber board of directors, Brown volunteers for the Gettysburg Wine & Music Festival and co-chairs the Legislative Committee. She attends many events, including mixers and breakfasts, as well as ribbon cuttings, welcoming new businesses to the area.

Brown has coordinated several fundraisers in memory of her friend Jennifer LeVan as president of the Adams County Arts Council. Other groups Brown volunteers for include: member of the Adams County Transportation Planning Organization, vice president of the board for the Susquehanna Regional Transportation Partnership, vice president of the board for the Central Pennsylvania Transportation Authority, longtime member of the Rotary Club of Gettysburg, past president and active member of the Optimist Club of Gettysburg, member of the Gettysburg Foundation committee in search of answers to affordable housing in Adams County, and volunteer for Elm Street programs like the annual Halloween and Christmas parades.

"In every part of her life, personal and professional, Darlene consistently commits herself to the service of other people in a quiet, unpretentious manner, never seeking personal recognition or praise," said Caroline Smith, longtime friend. "Adams County is a far better place because of her selfless participation in its community and professional activities, and I can think of no one who deserves this award more than Darlene, who has given of herself for Gettysburg in so many ways."

Chamber Recognizes Larry Plank for Volunteerism

Larry Plank, owner of L & H Mechanical Services, Gettysburg, is the Chamber Volunteer of the Year, recognized for his outstanding work at the annual Gettysburg Wine & Music Festival.

"The wine festival would not be the success it is without Larry," said Carrie Stuart, chamber president. "Beyond providing electrical needs, he can be counted on as a go-to guy for any task and does it with a smile. He is a tremendous asset not only to the chamber, but also to the entire Adams County community, and we thank him for his service."

For more than 8 years, Plank and his team have provided electrical services to the Gettysburg Wine & Music Festival, the largest source of non-dues revenue for the chamber.

In addition to providing electricity to the festival, he helps ensure attendees have a good experience no matter the weather. He supplies straw during years where ground conditions are muddy, even providing extra on a flatbed trailer so it is on hand if needed. During the extreme heat at this year's festival, he supplied a 500-gallon tank of water for misting fans. He also allows materials like plywood, snow fence and rebar to be stored at his office, always ensuring it is on the festival grounds when needed. He has even helped with festival clean-up, despite having been onsite all weekend.

Plank is also an annual supporter of the chamber's Holiday Jackpot Raffle and was named Small Business Person of the Year in 2012.

"He is a true testament to a good, honorable, hard-working individual," Carl and Susie Frantz wrote in their nomination letter. "We are proud to have him in Adams County and honored to nominate him for this award."

Committee Updates

Adams County Economic Education Foundation

The foundation, a 501(c)3 organization that has been part of the community for 25 years, is seeking funds from local businesses for its work to meet the needs of students who are the emerging workforce, the ever changing business community and the demands placed on the education community. The Annual Career Fair has exposed thousands of tenth grade students to local professionals and possible career paths. The Dwight D. Eisenhower Senior Self Improvement Award recognizes those youth that have chosen to better their lives through hard work and determination. For the past two years the foundation has hosted business education summits that have open up the communication between the area's education providers and the local business community. Each of these programs are designed to support and help Adams County become a community that benefits its students, leaders and businesses. To learn more, contact Edith Waldron at edithw@gettysburg-chamber.org.

Awards Committee

The committee met Oct. 12 to name recipients of awards presented at the Annual Meeting Nov. 3. Honorees include Darlene A. Brown, Adams County Housing Authority/PA Interfaith Community Programs Inc., as Outstanding Citizen of the Year and Larry Plank, L & H Mechanical & Electrical Services Inc., as Chamber Volunteer of the Year.

Board of Directors

The board approved a partnership with Google Street Views to offer chamber members a steep discount of $199 per year for the Street Views application. The board continues to make progress on strategic planning and is working to find a facilitator.

Environmental Committee

The committee reviewed a beautification award application and a green recognition application. Recipients will be recognized at the next County Connections breakfast. The annual Environmental Stewardship award will again be given out at the May awards breakfast. The application is being reviewed for distribution in early 2017. Adams County may soon be placed on the DEP drought watch list, which would result in a voluntary 5% reduction in water use.

Holiday Jackpot Raffle Committee

Tickets are now on sale for the holiday party of the season, the chamber's Holiday Jackpot Raffle, hosted by the Wyndham Gettysburg Hotel with support from Members 1st Federal Credit Union. The committee set a goal to sell 260 tickets at $50 each. The event features heavy hors d'oeuvres as well as a non-perishable food drive for the Adams County Food Pantry, a component of South Central Community Action Programs. Get tickets from a board member or by calling 717.334.8151.

Legislative Committee

The committee discussed sweeping changes to the Fair Labor Standards Act that determine who is entitled to overtime pay. The new rules would cover more salaried workers, taking the annual salary of employees who are eligible for overtime from $23,660 a year to $47,476 a year. Employers are expected to have a plan in place for handling workers' payments by Dec. 1. Sen. Alloway is looking for a temporary solution to the electronic recycling issue by having the state lift the restrictions on landfills until a permanent solution can be found. Washington Township in Franklin County will accept electronics, but you must pay by the pound. Neither Rep. Will Tallman nor Rep. Dan Moul voted for the current state budget, as the spending levels were too high and it does not address the pension crisis. County Commissioner Marty Qually reported the county is having a discussion on a new draft of the county's Pillow Tax, including enforcement and collection of delinquent accounts. The Human Services Building is under renovation and is on time and on budget. Finally, Qually said the county's budget reflects a decrease in revenue of $1 million but a corresponding decrease in expenditures of $3 million.

Marketing Advisory Committee

Adams County Living, the official publication of the chamber, was delivered with the Gettysburg Times to 8,000 homes and businesses. There are 2,000 copies left that will be distributed from the office and chamber member businesses, particularly those with waiting rooms. A new welcome sign can now be seen as drivers enter Gettysburg from Route 30. The committee will next look at other marketing projects, including creating a new website. The Annual Meeting will focus on the chamber's recent work to tell the story of the chamber, businesses and the community.

Membership & Ambassador Committee

New members include the Beef Jerky Outlet and Getty Pak, bringing the membership total to 528. Staff is accepting applications for Chamber Ambassadors for the upcoming year (jenniferm@gettysburg-chamber.org). Committee volunteers will contact 2016 dropped members for exit interviews. Membership Appreciation Month in May will be recognized with a picnic and brief awards ceremony over lunch, as well as an awards breakfast.

Wine Festival

More than 7,000 attendees enjoyed the annual event, which netted a significant amount over budget. Reviews from vendors were overwhelmingly positive. Merchandise also brought in the biggest profit ever. Chamber staff will work with community groups benefiting from the festival to schedule check presentations.

Destination Gettysburg Wins Statewide Award

The readers of Pennsylvania Meetings + Events – a trade publication targeting meeting, conference and event planners – have voted Destination Gettysburg the top destination marketing organization of cities/towns less than 25,000 people.

The award was presented as part of Pennsylvania Meetings + Events' annual "Best of Pennsylvania" ceremony last week in Philadelphia. Other finalists included the Hershey Harrisburg Regional Visitors Bureau as well as Lackawanna County Convention & Visitors Bureau.

The meetings market – which encompasses conventions, conferences and events – is an important part of Destination Gettysburg's marketing, the organization said. While Gettysburg is largely a leisure travel destination, meetings and conferences provide substantial economic benefits year-round and during the week.

Destination Gettysburg markets heavily to meeting and event planners in the Mid-Atlantic United States, especially to those interested in unique meeting and event venues as well as those looking to participate in the destination's popular leadership development programs – which connect the community's rich history to modern-day decisions that are made in today's organizations and corporations.
