COMMUTE PA

Greener Trips. Cleaner Air.

MEMBER SPOTLIGHT

Commute PA

Stacy Newcomer, Outreach & Education Director
1.866.579.RIDE (7433) | stacy@commutepa.org

Let's meet the new Commute PA!

In 2024, Commuter Services of PA announced a meaningful brand evolution and relaunch of transportation services in Adams and surrounding counties, rebranding as "Commute PA: Greener Trips. Cleaner Air." The Chamber had the opportunity to speak with Stacy Newcomer, Outreach and Education Director, to learn more about Commute PA.

Commute PA is a Transportation Demand Management (TDM) program aimed at reducing congestion, conserving natural resources and improving air quality and mobility at a regional level. TDM programs work to develop strategies to improve overall efficiency in transportation systems by influencing travel behavior and promoting options such as carpooling, vanpooling, biking, walking, telecommuting, and public transit.

"The wide array of programs and services are available for free and will help improve attendance, enhance productivity, reduce parking costs, save on payroll taxes, achieve sustainability goals, and facilitate greater access to transportation options with the hope of removing barriers for commuters and travelers," Newcomer said. "Providing access to transportation resources helps to connect people with jobs in their community, which in turn helps to improve the economic impact of business because they are fully staffed."

Commute PA's team provides a turn-key approach for employers and organizations in the region to help create positive commute experiences for their employees and members of the public. One of the services they provide is to develop a custom plan and implement programs based on business needs and location. Some of the options that can be customized include carpool/vanpool programs, transit information services, and providing bicycling/walking resources and education.

Making sure that they hear the feedback from partners and the public is extremely important to Commute PA and is one of the ways they stay engaged in the industry.

"The outreach team utilized by Commute PA has a wealth of information we desire to disseminate to our employer and community partners," Newcomer said, "However, not everyone 'needs' or 'wants' the same solutions to their transportation needs and/or sustainability goals. The most important aspect of our success is hearing what the partner has to say and then responding to those comments with helpful advice and guidance that will help the partner move closer to their overall satisfaction point."

The Commute PA rebrand and transformation has been driven by their dedication to serving commuters, local employers, community organizations, and stakeholders while fostering a connected and thriving community.

As a member of The Chamber, how does the chamber help you?

Having a membership provides a valuable resource to network with Adams County organizations to discuss transportation needs while providing credibility and visibility as an engaged community member.

BIZ BUZZ

The Commute PA program is celebrating its' 20th year of service this year. The Transportation Demand Management program was created by the Susquehanna Regional Transportation Partnership (SRTTP) which is a non-profit organization with a board of directors comprised of the regional transit agencies, Metropolitan Planning Organizations and the Chambers of Commerce. The mission is to move people from commuting in a car by themselves to a greener and more efficient mode. By successfully encouraging commuters to utilize a non-drive alone option, we decrease traffic congestion thereby improving air quality.

FIX THESE SMB SECURITY FLAWS NOW

Written by Shannon McCleary, TREYSTA Marketing & Account Manager

No one likes to hear they have flaws. Yet, having security flaws when it comes to your business can lead to devastating results. Small and medium sized businesses (SMBs) face the same cybersecurity risks as their larger counterparts but, SMBs are less likely to invest in their IT systems. This puts them in the crosshairs of cyber-criminals. However, there are steps you can take to keep your business safe.

The aftermath of a cyberattack can be disastrous. Customer trust and loyalty can be lost while the damage to your reputation can remain long lasting. Furthermore, downtime, data loss, and hefty fines can result from a cyberattack. For many SMBs, it can mean the difference between remaining open or closing down – as 60% of SMBs close after an attack.

One of the most significant vulnerabilities an SMB faces lies in the lack of employee security training. The fact is, 75% of cyberattacks start with an email, according to TrendMicro. Regular training sessions are important in arming your staff with the knowledge to recognize and respond to any potential cyber threats.

Network security is another area of concern. Many SMBs lack the necessary measures to safeguard against unauthorized access. One great way to protect your business is the use of firewalls. A firewall acts as a barrier by monitoring and controlling your network traffic based on established security rules.

Poor password management also poses a risk. When you or your employees use weak passwords, or reuse the same passwords across multiple accounts, you're basically handing your data to cybercriminals. Once they have one password, cybercriminals will then attempt to log into any similar accounts. You can enhance your account security by using strong, unique passwords, supported by two factor authentication. Password managers are also a fantastic way to securely store passwords for all your accounts – and make using unique passwords simple.

The absence of cybersecurity liability insurance is a common oversight for SMBs. Cybersecurity liability insurance provides a financial cushion against losses from data breaches, ransomware, and hacking, helping SMBs recover faster. Additionally, it offers access to resources for incident management and recovery. Cybersecurity liability insurance is vital for sustaining your business operations and protecting against unpredictable threats.

Lastly, your business should have a solid data backup and recovery strategy. SMBs should use automated backup solutions that store data in offsite cloud based systems. Doing so can facilitate swift recovery without you having to succumb to ransom demands.

In conclusion, SMBs like yours need to adopt a proactive and comprehensive approach to cybersecurity. This involves strengthening password policies, educating employees, securing networks, investing in cybersecurity liability insurance, and ensuring data backup and recovery systems are in place. By prioritizing these measures, SMBs can significantly lower their risk profile and secure their operations against cybersecurity threats.
