MEMBER SPOTLIGHT

Fuhrman Creative

Kathi Fuhrman, Owner

717.965.4406 | kathi@fuhrmancreative.com

Let's meet Kathi Fuhrman with Fuhrman Creative!

As a daughter of entrepreneurs, Kathi Fuhrman always knew she wanted to start her own business. After developing a passion for small business as a young girl, she knew the importance marketing held on the success of those small, family-owned businesses. To help her parents businesses thrive, Fuhrman began teaching herself about marketing. While attending Shippensburg University, she switched her major from elementary education to marketing and never looked back.

"I thought to myself that there must be a way to help business owners who maybe see the big picture, but don't really know how to implement the small day-to-day things like marketing," Fuhrman said.

Her first job in marketing was in Hanover at a local insurance agency where she created a marketing strategy and branding concept for them. Fuhrman spent the next ten years there, but felt a calling that she needed to do something different. That's when she had the idea to start a marketing agency and Fuhrman Creative was born.

"Initially, I thought social media marketing was what I was going to do," Fuhrman said. "In the beginning, we mainly focused on social media and content writing, and that was it."

In the wake of Covid-19 and quarantine, the agency grew drastically and Fuhrman Creative truly stepped into a full service marketing agency. They expanded their service offerings to include website design, business cards, brochures, branding, and all things graphic design.

"We do it all, but our specialty really is the businesses who are local to us, meaning within 30 miles," Fuhrman said. "We visit each client every month so that we can get to know them and immerse ourselves in what they're doing."

With the agency gaining more clients, Fuhrman was able to expand her team from just herself to seven employees. She prides herself that her team is made up of incredibly talented people saying, "When hiring, I looked for individuals who had talents I didn't have, because the only way you can be a strong marketing team is if all your bases are covered."

The takeaway of Fuhrman Creative is that they do things differently than other marketing agencies. They build close relationships, inspire, and help their clients think outside the box, giving them the tools and the mindset to succeed.

What motivates you to jump out of bed in the morning?

First and foremost my family. After that, it's that I love what I do. I love helping the businesses and organizations that we work with, I feel their gratitude every day, and I feel the gratitude for my team every day.

ADVOCACY UPDATES

2024 FARMERS MARKET NUTRITION PROGRAM TO BEGIN PA STATE REPRESENTATIVE DAN MOUL

Beginning in June, Pennsylvania's Farmers Market Nutrition Programs will offer vouchers to low-income seniors and individuals who qualify for the WIC program, to purchase fresh fruits, vegetables and herbs from participating farmers throughout Pennsylvania. No processed foods or citrus or tropical fruits are permitted.

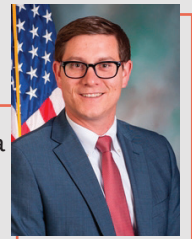

To qualify, seniors must be at least 60 years old and meet the federal income guidelines. (Total household income may not exceed $27,861 for a household of one; $37,814 for two; $47,767 for three; and $57,720 for four.) Eligible seniors will be given five $10 checks and a list of participating farmers and farmers' markets where the checks may be exchanged for fresh produce. To get yours, visit Kelly Kresky at the Adams County Office for Aging, 318 W. Middle St., Gettysburg, call (717) 334-9296 or email kkresky@acofa.org.

WIC recipients would receive the benefit during their quarterly WIC visits (May - September) and would receive three $10 checks redeemable at qualified farmers' markets or roadside stands.

Interested individuals are encouraged to apply early as the checks are available on a first-come, first-served basis, and expire on Nov. 30.

Pennsylvania has more than 1,160 participating farmers, 828 farm stands and 88 farmers' markets.

PROPOSAL WOULD BENEFIT LOCAL COMMUNITIES PA STATE REPRESENTATIVE TORREN ECKER

If someone dies without a will and without family members, the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania becomes the sole beneficiary of the estate. I want to change that.

I believe communities in which the deceased lived would be best served by receiving the inheritance when there is no family to claim it. As a result, I have introduced legislation that would distribute the deceased's estate to non-profit organizations in the county in which the deceased resided.

This issue was brought to my attention by Ralph Serpe, president, and CEO of the Adams County Community Foundation. This homegrown proposal, I believe, does justice for deceased individuals, and allows them to continue to contribute to the community they once called home.

It simply makes sense to me that the money should stay in the county where the person lived and be used for the good of the community. I am hopeful this legislation will soon become law.

THE SECURITY RISK OF NOT USING TWO-FACTOR AUTHENTICATION

Written by Shannon McCleary, TREYSTA Marketing & Account Manager

Two-factor authentication (2FA) is a security feature that adds an extra layer of protection to your online accounts. It requires two forms of identification before you are granted access. Typically, this includes something you know (like a password) and something you have (such as a phone to receive a verification code).

Many of us already use some form of 2FA – like when you log into your bank account. However, with the rise of cybersecurity threats, it is important to enable this safety feature whenever possible.

The major risk of not using 2FA is the danger of an attacker gaining unauthorized access. Your passwords, even complex ones, can be compromised by phishing attacks, brute force attacks, and data breaches.

Phishing attacks trick you into exposing your passwords by pretending to be legitimate websites, while brute force attacks involve automated attempts to guess your passwords.

Data breaches expose millions of passwords that can be used to access accounts. Without 2FA, once your password is compromised, the attacker gains full access to your account, often undetected.

In contrast, 2FA significantly reduces these risks. Even if an attacker manages to obtain your password, they would still need the second factor. This is usually a time sensitive code sent to your phone or generated by an authenticator app, such as Authy. This additional step makes it more difficult for cybercriminals to gain access, as it requires the use of a physical device.

Another significant risk of not using 2FA is the possibility for identity theft and fraud. Once an attacker gains access to your account, they can steal sensitive information, conduct fraudulent transactions, or impersonate you. (At this point, we all know of someone whose social media account has been hacked!)

For instance, accessing your email account can provide the attacker with a treasure trove of personal information, including financial details, contacts, and other login credentials. Similarly, compromising your social media account can lead to further phishing attacks targeting your friends and followers.

"Small businesses are 350% more likely to be subject to a cyberattack."

The effects of these security breaches often extend beyond your individual accounts. For businesses, a single compromised account can lead to financial losses, damage to reputation, and legal consequences. Sadly, small businesses are 350% more likely to be subject to a cyberattack.

Attackers can use compromised business accounts to break into the organization's network, steal intellectual property, or launch further attacks against clients and partners. Implementing 2FA for all employee accounts can significantly reduce the likelihood of such breaches, safeguarding your organization's assets and maintaining customer trust.

In conclusion, not using two-factor authentication poses significant security risks, including unauthorized access and identity theft. By adding an extra layer of security, 2FA dramatically reduces the likelihood of these threats, ensuring that your accounts and sensitive information remain protected. You can enable 2FA by reviewing the security settings within your account. For both individuals and organizations, the adoption of 2FA is a crucial step toward enhancing cybersecurity resilience!
