BUSINESS BRIEFS

The bolded businesses in Business Briefs are Chamber members. Submit news to chambernews@gettysburg-chamber.org by the second Tuesday of each month for inclusion in the following month's publication.

Barley Snyder is pleased to announce partner Luke T. Weber has been named chair of the firm's Health Care Industry Group. Weber brings substantial experience and strategic vision to the role, reinforcing the firm's commitment to providing top-tier legal services to clients across the health care sector. As Chair, Weber will lead a team of seasoned attorneys who deliver comprehensive legal services to the health care sector. The group focuses on a broad range of litigation, including medical malpractice defense, regulatory compliance, licensing, consulting, senior living care, and business transactions, among others.

Keller Engineers is pleased to welcome Anna Lynn to their Accounting Division where she will be managing the firm's Accounts Receivable process. Lynn is a graduate of The Pennsylvania State University with Bachelor of Science degrees in Accounting and Business-Marketing/Management. She has experience working as a finance assistant, recording data in state registration software, and preparing bank contracts. Keller Engineers is excited to include Lynn in their growing network of employees and have her as a member of their Accounting team.

Stock and Leader is excited to announce that Bradley A. Davis, Esquire, has joined the School Law Group as Counsel. Davis will assist clients on Title IX and civil rights matters. Davis earned his undergraduate degree from Randolph-Macon College. He then pursued a Master's degree in Education Theory and Policy at The Pennsylvania State University, College of Education while simultaneously obtaining his Juris Doctor from The Pennsylvania State University, Penn State Law. Davis interned at the Federal Department of Education, Office for Civil Rights, and the Pennsylvania Department of Education, Office of General Counsel. He later joined a law firm based in Wyomissing, where he practiced civil law. Davis is a certified Title IX Investigator and serves as a Title IX Coordinator or Investigator for several higher education institutions.

The Gettysburg Foundation is proud to announce that Children of Gettysburg 1863 has been nominated in USA Today's 10 Best Reader's Choice Awards for Best Children's Museum- for the second consecutive year. As Gettysburg's only interactive history museum designed specifically for young historians, Children of Gettysburg 1863 immerses visitors in the compelling stories of children, teens, and young adults who lived in and around Gettysburg during and after the battle. The winning museums will be announced and posted on 10best.usatoday.com.

Governor Josh Shapiro announced recipients of $10 million in grants through the nation's first Agriculture Innovation Grant Program. This funding will help Pennsylvania agriculture and implement clean energy solutions, boosting profits, protecting soil and water resources, and generating more clean, renewable energy. Recipients of the grants in Adams County are as follows: Adams County Nursey - $30,000 for development and installation of an advanced harvesting system for fruit crops, Bonnie Brae Fruit Farms - $40,000 for installation of spray technology and LiDAR remote sensing components, Erik Larson - $150,000 to upgrade sorting technology for improved fruit processing, Gettysburg Energy & Nutrient Recovery Facility - $40,000 for converting poultry waste into renewable energy, Kime's Cider Mill - $19,000 for installation of advanced refrigeration technology, Kuhn Orchards - $19,000 for use of drone technology in precision chemical and fertilizer application, Rice Fruit Company - $130,000 to implement a robotic bin-tipper system, and Robby V. Sebright - $40,000 for advanced ventilation systems for optimal dairy farm conditions.

Cross Keys Village- The Brethren Home Community welcomes Beverly Asper as its new President and CEO. With over 25 years of leadership in aging services, Asper has expertise in strategic planning, governance, and community building. She previously served as Director at Baker Tilly Advisory Group, advising senior living organizations nationwide. Asper officially started her role as CEO on December 2, 2024, and looks forward to connecting with residents, team members, and community partners in the months ahead.

Learn More About the United Way of Adams County!

In Adams County the United Way of Adams County has been a vital part of the community for over 75 years, working tirelessly to support individuals and families in need. Steering the helm of this organization is Executive Director Laura McMahon, whose background in non-profit management spans over two decades with the YMCA. Before taking the role of Executive Director in 2019, McMahon served in various positions, including President/CEO of YMCA locations in West Virginia, Pennsylvania, and Maryland. Throughout her career, she has always admired the mission and impact of United Way, which led her to her current position.

Founded in 1947 by the Gettysburg Lions Club and the Rotary Club, the United Way of Adams County initially operated under the name "Community Chest." The organization's mission remains focused on mobilizing the caring power of the community to address critical issues. United Way supports local agencies and also provides direct services like food drives and free tax preparation for low-income residents. Their efforts center on education, financial stability, and health, with a deep commitment to serving the local community.

With a small but dedicated team of just three staff members, United Way relies on volunteers and donors to help achieve its goals. Donations made to the organization stay local, ensuring that the resources directly benefit those in need within Adams County.

"We rely on the support of our volunteers and community partners to continue doing what we do best," says McMahon. This commitment to the local community makes United Way more than just a charity—it's a lifeline for many residents.

As Executive Director, McMahon is responsible for overseeing the daily operations of United Way, from staff and volunteer leadership to managing campaigns and special events.

"Non-profit management is never a 9-to-5 job. Every day brings a new challenge," says McMahon emphasizing that the work is always dynamic and rewarding. Despite the challenges, the impact of the organization on the community keeps them motivated. "Knowing we are helping people facing hardships and getting them to a place where they can stand on their own two feet is incredibly motivating."

United Way of Adams County stays engaged with the community through its partnerships with organizations like CONTACT Helpline, which operates the 2-1-1 crisis hotline. These partnerships help identify the most urgent needs in the area. Currently, affordable housing and assistance with utility, rent, and mortgage payments are at the forefront of the community's concerns.

Giving back to the community is at the heart of United Way's work. Through both direct services and partnerships with other local agencies, the organization strives to meet the evolving needs of the community.

For new business owners, McMahon advises building relationships within the community and collaborating with other local organizations. "Networking is everything in a small town like Adams County. Support local non-profits and collaborate with others to reach more people and make a bigger impact."

United Way of Adams County remains an essential force in the community, providing critical services and support for residents in need. With a dedicated team, a strong network of volunteers, and a mission driven by compassion, the organization continues to lead the way in helping those facing hardship in Adams County.

When you're not working, where in Adams County do you like to spend your time?

I enjoy shopping local, exploring the outdoors and finding new fishing spots when the weather is warmer. Hollabaugh's is usually on my list of places to visit on weekends. I like to check out local special events and celebrations when time permits, too.

BIZ BUZZ

Formed in 1947, the mission of the United Way of Adams County is to improve lives by mobilizing the caring power of our community. Their values are focused on a high-quality education for our local children, providing resources to individuals and families to achieve financial stability in their lives, and ensuring good physical and mental health for all.

CHAMBER CHAT

Carrie Stuart Honored with J. Frank Sapp Volunteer of the Year Award

The Chamber is proud to announce that Carrie Stuart, our very own President, was honored with the prestigious J. Frank Sapp Volunteer of the Year Award by the Adams Economic Alliance. In addition to her leadership at the Chamber, Carrie has been an active member of the Alliance's ACEDC board since 2011. Over the years, she has played a key role on the Executive Committee and chaired several committees, most recently guiding the alliance through the adoption of a new strategic plan. Please join us in congratulating Carrie for this well-deserved recognition and thanking her for her unwavering dedication to making Adams County a better place to live and work! Spreading the Love in Adams County: YPR's First Community Service!

In February, in the spirit of sharing love for Valentine's Day, The Chamber held its very first community service YPR program! YPR partnered with Adams Rescue Mission to serve lunch to both the residents who live and work there, as well as the dedicated staff that help make the Mission's incredible work possible. Through the compassion of Jesus, the Adams Rescue Mission supports the hungry, homeless, abused, and addicted, guiding them toward recovery and restoration. After learning more about the Rescue Mission, Agape House, and Hope House, YPR members enjoyed lunch together and had the opportunity to network. This first community service event was a great success, and we look forward to continuing this meaningful outreach in the future!

ADVOCACY UPDATES

HALT FENTANYL ACT PROTECTS AMERICAN LIVES CONGRESSMAN JOHN JOYCE

The health and security of all Americans was significantly enhanced through action taken by the U.S. House of Representatives in early February.

In a bi-partisan show of support, my House colleagues and I overwhelmingly passed legislation that will save lives by cracking down on the illicit fentanyl flowing across our borders. The HALT Fentanyl Act classifies fentanyl analogues as Schedule 1 drugs and empowers our law enforcement officers and border patrol agents to effectively seize these substances. A Schedule 1 drug is defined as a drug or other substance that has a high chance of being abused or causing addiction and has no FDA-approved medical use in the United States. Significantly, the HALT Fentanyl Act will result in harsher penalties for the criminals who produce, traffic, and sell these poisons.

In the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in 2023, an individual died of overdose every two hours. More than three-fourths of those overdose deaths were the result of fentanyl use. Nationwide, illicit fentanyl poisonings are now the leading cause of death among adults aged 18 to 49.

For communities across the nation and all future generations, the HALT Fentanyl Act is a defense against a scourge that doesn't discriminate by age, gender, economic status, or educational background. I was proud to support this legislation.

PROTECTING OUR FOOD, OUR FAMILIES, AND OUR FREEDOM SENATOR DOUG MASTRIANO

Pennsylvanians deserve to know that the food on their tables is exactly as God and nature intended—pure, unaltered, and free from unwarranted medical interventions. That's why I am introducing the Food Purity Protection Act—a bill designed to ensure that no vaccines or vaccine-related substances are ever injected, grown, or introduced into the food we eat.

Across the country, there is a growing concern that biotechnology could be used to introduce vaccines into our food supply—without our knowledge or consent. While some dismiss these fears, the fact remains: the potential exists, and Pennsylvanians have every right to demand transparency and protection when it comes to what we put in our bodies.

The CDC, FDA, and other health agencies have already stated that vaccines should never be a part of food products. This legislation will codify that stance into law, ensuring that every Pennsylvanian can eat, purchase, and grow food without fear of hidden medical interventions.

What This Bill Will Do

- Prohibit the inclusion of vaccines or vaccine components in any food product—whether processed or unprocessed, sold, stored, transported, or distributed in Pennsylvania.
- Protect livestock and agriculture, ensuring that no vaccine-related substances are used in feed, crops, or any part of the food supply chain.
- Safeguard consumer choice by guaranteeing that Pennsylvanians have full transparency about what's in their food.

This isn't about politics. It's about freedom, transparency, and the fundamental right to choose what goes into our bodies. No Pennsylvanian should ever have to wonder whether their food has been medically altered without their consent.

I urge my colleagues to stand with the people of Pennsylvania and protect the purity of our food, our families, and our freedom.

Let's keep our food the way it was meant to be—pure, natural, and free from interference.

DOWNTIME COULD COST YOU THOUSANDS—HERE'S HOW TO PROTECT YOUR BUSINESS

Written by Shannon McCleary, TREYSTA Marketing & Account Manager

Imagine this: your business is running smoothly, and then—oh no!—your systems crash. Your employees can't access files, your customers are getting frustrated, and everything comes to a halting standstill. Now, think about how much that downtime is about to cost you. It's not just the lost sales or the hours of unproductive work; it's your reputation, security, and long term success on the line.

Downtime is more than annoying—it's expensive. Every minute your systems are down, employees are sitting idle, unable to do their jobs. Deadlines get missed, projects stall, and customers start looking elsewhere. Studies show unplanned downtime could cost businesses thousands of dollars per minute. Is that money you can afford to lose?

But it doesn't stop there. When customers can't reach you, they lose trust. If it happens often enough, they may never come back. And let's not forget security risks—when your systems are down, your business becomes an easy target for cybercriminals looking for vulnerabilities. A data breach or ransomware attack during downtime can cost far more than just money—it can put your entire business at risk!

So how do you stop this from happening? The answer is proactive IT support. With continuous monitoring, system updates, and a solid disaster recovery plan, you can catch potential issues before they turn into costly downtime. Instead of waiting for something to break, proactive IT keeps your business running smoothly.

Another thing many don't realize is that employees are both the first line of defense against cyber threats and the number one cause of data breaches. Whether it's clicking a phishing link or using weak passwords, human error plays a massive role in security failures. That's why, in addition to proactive IT support, security awareness training is your second best defense. Educating your team on cybersecurity best practices significantly reduces the risk of an attack.

At the end of the day, downtime isn't just a tech problem—it's a business problem. Investing in proactive IT support and security awareness training means protecting your time, money, and reputation. Because let's be honest, wouldn't you rather focus on growing your business instead of scrambling to fix IT issues?

Shannon McCleary works for TREYSTA technology management, a local IT company in Gettysburg and York. Questions? Please reach out to info@teamtreysta.com.

"Downtime is more than annoying—it's expensive."

SHAPING TOMORROW'S LEADERS: THE FOUNDATION FOR FREE ENTERPRISE EDUCATION

The Foundation for Free Enterprise Education (FFEE) is paving the way for a brighter future by equipping Pennsylvania's youth with the skills, knowledge, and confidence to succeed. Through its innovative programs, FFEE fosters a deep understanding of the free enterprise system while preparing students for personal and professional success.

At the heart of FFEE's mission is its flagship program, Pennsylvania Free Enterprise Week (PFEW), which has been inspiring high school students for over 46 years. Each summer, students from across the state step into the roles of corporate executives, working in teams to navigate real-world business challenges. Along the way, they develop critical thinking, leadership, and teamwork skills that will serve them for a lifetime.

But PFEW is more than a business program—it's a life-changing journey. Students leave with newfound confidence, lifelong friendships, and a clearer vision for their future. Many participants describe the week as "transformational," with alumni often calling it the best week of their lives.

In 2025, PFEW will debut a Reality Fair, an interactive simulation that teaches students how to navigate real-world financial decisions. From budgeting and managing expenses to saving for the future, this hands-on experience equips students with essential life skills to prepare them for adulthood.

FFEE's programming extends beyond PFEW. The Speaker Series connects students with accomplished professionals from various industries and youth opportunities across the state, offering inspiration and practical career insights. The Stock Market Game™ introduces students to the principles of investing and financial literacy, providing teachers with valuable classroom resources while helping students meet key educational benchmarks. All FFEE programs align with Pennsylvania's education standards, ensuring they are both impactful and relevant.

However, none of this would be possible without the incredible partners who bring these programs to life. Each summer, dedicated professionals, educators, and community members join PFEW as mentors, company advisors, and guest speakers. Volunteering at PFEW is an opportunity to make a tangible difference in the lives of young people while sharing your expertise and enthusiasm. Volunteers often say the experience is as rewarding for them as it is for the students.

FFEE also relies on the support of local businesses, schools, and community organizations. These partnerships empower the foundation to offer sponsorships, guaranteeing that every student, regardless of financial circumstances, has access to the unique PFEW opportunity. Together, these collaborations are shaping the next generation of leaders and innovators who will drive Pennsylvania's economy forward.

To support PFEW or to learn more about these vital FFEE programs, visit www.pfew.org or contact VP of Marketing & Development Scott Lee at (814) 833-9576 ext. 8, or scott@pfew.org. Together, we can empower Pennsylvania's youth to achieve greatness and build a brighter future for all.

Spring Into Savings!

Spring is the perfect time to get noticed!

Promote your new spring products, special offers, and seasonal updates, or re-engage customers by advertising with The Chamber and reaching thousands across Adams County through our website, eblasts, and newsletter.

Special Offer:
Get 15% off any size ad when you book between March 1-15!

Don't wait—ads must run within one year of scheduling. For details, email Annie Burns at annieb@gettysburg-chamber.org.
