MEMBER SPOTLIGHT

Members 1st Federal Credit Union

Sarah Sidenstricker - Branch Manager II

717.338.1295 | www.members1st.org

Let's Meet Sarah Sidenstricker with Members 1st!

After spending 13 years cultivating a successful career in Gettysburg's hospitality industry—working her way from bartending to roles in sales and marketing—Sarah Sidenstricker was ready for a new challenge. She now brings that same energy, dedication, and leadership to her new position as Branch Manager at Members 1st Federal Credit Union.

Members 1st is a not-for-profit financial cooperative that exists to serve its members—not corporate shareholders. This member-first mindset allows the credit union to offer lower fees, better rates, and the ability to reinvest profits back into the communities it serves.

"I've lived in this area my entire life and am a proud graduate of New Oxford High School," Sidenstricker shared. "I have two boys who now attend New Oxford Elementary School. My children are my biggest motivation. They inspire me to succeed and push me to set a strong example as they grow up."

In her role as Branch Manager at the Gettysburg East Branch, Sidenstricker oversees daily operations, manages staff scheduling, and assists with member transactions. Her responsibilities also extend beyond the branch, where she leads local business development efforts.

"I attend networking events, volunteer in the community, and strive to educate both current and potential members about the wide range of products and services that Members 1st offers," she said.

With a culture grounded in support and service, Members 1st takes great pride in creating a warm, welcoming experience for its members. As financial needs evolve, the credit union stays ahead of industry trends—continuously improving digital tools, enhancing the mobile banking experience, and expanding financial wellness resources to meet the needs of today's members.

In her leadership role, Sidenstricker understands that collaboration is key to delivering the best outcomes for members and for the business.

"Lead by example. Don't ask your team to do anything you wouldn't do yourself. Before we were leaders, we were individual contributors working toward a shared goal," she said. "Ultimately, a leader's success is measured by the success and achievements of their team."

Sidenstricker acknowledges that stepping into leadership requires a shift in mindset. While being part of the team is one experience, leading the team demands different skills—and often, a steep learning curve. But she's up for the challenge.

"Every successful business owner who has built a well-established company has faced similar difficulties. They have experienced the same uphill battles and have had to pivot, adapt and change over the years," she said. "You can achieve anything you are passionate about if you put your whole heart into it."

One of the core values at Members 1st is a deep commitment to community. That's demonstrated through a variety of initiatives—from a grant program supporting local nonprofits to sponsoring events across Adams County. Every associate is also encouraged to give back, with each team member volunteering at least twice a year.

When she's not at work, you can find Sidenstricker outdoors—fishing, kayaking, or tending to her garden.

ADVOCACY UPDATES

SENATE APPROVES MY BILL TO INCREASE FIREFIGHTERS IN PA

SENATOR DOUG MASTRIANO

The Senate approved Senate Bill 90, a bill I introduced to increase the number of volunteer firefighters in Pennsylvania. It now heads to the House of Representatives for further consideration.

The bill would make it easier for firefighters to earn their certification while maintaining the high standards and requirements of the certification process. Current firefighter applicants must complete four training modules totaling 188 hours. They then must pass a cumulative test covering all four modules. Senate Bill 90 would reform the certification process by enabling applicants to be tested following each of the four modules.

In the 1970s, Pennsylvania had as many as 300,000 volunteer firefighters – now there are fewer than 38,000. If Pennsylvania is going to reverse the trend of declining numbers, we need to reform the certification process. Many communities need more volunteer firefighters, and this is a way to make that possible.

IT'S TIME TO PRIORITIZE DAIRY PROCESSING IN PENNSYLVANIA

REPRESENTATIVE DAN MOUL

In May, I voted with my House Republican colleagues to amend legislation aimed at providing a long overdue and much-needed boost to Pennsylvania's struggling dairy industry, but our efforts were voted down by House Democrats who hold the majority. The amendments to House Bill 500 were aimed at fixing the Economic Development for a Growing Economy (EDGE) Tax Credit Program, which was created in 2022 to help attract large dairy processors like the ones now choosing to locate in neighboring states.

However, the substantial amount of investment required to qualify for the tax credit has left the program unused. An amendment by Rep. John Lawrence (R-Chester), who serves on the Agriculture and Rural Affairs Committee, would make Pennsylvania more competitive by providing tax incentives to locate new or expand existing dairy processing plants here to provide increased processing capacity for Pennsylvania milk. It would also address environmental concerns by providing a tax credit for the construction of methane digesters on family farms to prevent damaging runoff into the Chesapeake Bay and incentivize farmers to reduce harmful emissions.

As chairman of the Agriculture and Rural Affairs Committee, I helped usher this bill through committee, and I'm disappointed that when the bill got to the full House it failed on a 102-101 party-line vote.

WHY SECURITY AWARENESS TRAINING IS YOUR NEW BEST FRIEND

Written by Shannon McCleary, TREYSTA Marketing & Account Manager

Listen—I completely understand how frustrating it can be to complete your Security Awareness Training (SAT). You're busy and so is your team! However, there's a very good reason your IT team sends out those pesky reminders: human error is still the #1 threat when it comes to cybersecurity. In fact, a whopping 41%<sup>1</sup> of recent attacks started with a simple phishing email.

If you're unfamiliar with the term "phishing"—you've probably experienced it before. It's when a scammer sends a fake email, text, or message that tricks you into clicking a bad link or sharing personal information.

Unfortunately, cybercriminals are getting really good at tricking people and it's not just big companies they're after anymore. Small and mid-sized businesses (SMBs) are a huge target because hackers know they might not have the same fancy security tools as the big guys. We can no longer have the mindset that "it won't happen to me" since employees at SMBs get hit with 350% more social engineering attacks than people at big companies. Crazy, right?

But what is a social engineering attack? It's when a hacker tricks you into giving up personal info—like passwords or credit card numbers—by pretending to be someone you trust. It's basically a con job, but done over email, text, or even a phone call.

And now with AI, those social engineering attacks are looking more realistic than ever. A recent report stated 3.4 BILLION phishing emails are sent daily<sup>2</sup>—greatly enhanced with the use of AI. Hackers are pretending to be your boss or coworkers using fake emails that look almost identical. Would you know how to spot the difference? Let's be honest—even the sharpest among us can be tricked. AI is making phishing scams look more convincing than ever.

The good news? SAT works. Companies that train their teams regularly cut down on phishing click rates by up to 90%<sup>3</sup>. That means way fewer data breaches, less downtime, and way less stress for you and your team. Plus, it saves money. Data breaches in 2024 cost an average of $217,000 per incident<sup>4</sup> for SMBs.

Yikes! Even a small breach could cripple a business.

Security Awareness Training turns your employees into your best line of defense. As TREYSTA's Proactive Services Lead Cody Daniels states, "True security starts with how you think. InfoSec SAT strengthens that mindset!"

So here's the bottom line: you can buy the best firewalls and antivirus programs, but if one person clicks the wrong link, it's game over. Train your people and make Security Awareness Training part of your everyday thinking. It's the easiest way to sleep better at night!
