education. While their brand is evolving, their mission remains unchanged. With the support of the public, they will continue to deliver exceptional programs and experiences – and ensure Gettysburg's powerful story reaches and inspires more people than ever.

Adams County Historical Society has launched a new initiative, Gettysburg History, that will help them grow, reach new audiences, and amplify their mission of preservation and

Main Street Gettysburg has been awarded a $10,000 grant from the Adams County Community Foundation's Forward Fund to support critical infrastructure stabilization beneath the future Gettysburg Welcome Center site. The funds will be used for the interim stabilization and permanent blocking of the historic Winebrenner Culvert, an underground channel dating to Gettysburg's pre-Civil War era. Recently exposed during the demolition phase, the culvert's deteriorated condition presents long-term risks to public safety and to the foundation of the Welcome Center itself. Structural engineers from C.S. Davidson recommended blocking the culvert as a cost-effective, preventative measure. The $10,000 grant will cover engineering-based solutions, such as concrete bulkheads or structural fill, to stabilize the area and prepare it for vertical construction. The Gettysburg Welcome Center is projected to open in time for America's 250th anniversary in 2026.

Keller Engineers is excited to welcome Doug Coffman to the Transportation Division as a Construction Inspector. Coffman has 30 years of experience which includes working within the heavy highway construction industry as a Foreman/Superintendent. He also completed the 12 TA-TCI Training Modules and is a certified NECEPT Concrete Field-Testing Technician.

Cross Keys Village - The Brethren Home Community is pleased to announce the promotion of Mike Kovacs to Vice President of Foundation. Throughout his time as the Director of Development and most recently Interim Executive Director, Kovacs has thoroughly demonstrated his passion for the work of The Brethren Home Foundation and commitment to the mission, vision, and values of Cross Keys Village.

James Meisenbach has joined Herbert, Rowland & Grubic, Inc as a GIS Group Manager. Meisenbach helps clients leverage spatial data for smart decision-making about their infrastructure. His professional experience spans most types of assets: transportation, water and wastewater systems, fiber optic communications infrastructure, municipal public works, upstream and midstream oil and gas, and MS4 compliance. Meisenbach also serves his community as a volunteer firefighter and emergency responder with the Columbia Borough Fire Department.

The York Water Company announced their financial results for the second quarter and the first six months of 2025. President JT Hand reported that second quarter operating revenues of $19,199,000 increased $49,000 and net income of $5,052,000 increased $59,000 compared to the second quarter of 2024. Basic and Diluted Earnings per share of $0.35 for the three-month period is unchanged compared to the same period last year. President Hand also reported that the first six months operating revenues of $37,655,000 increased $1,277,000, but net income of $8,690,000 decreased $630,000 compared to the first six months of 2024. During the first six months of 2025, the company invested $22.2 million in capital projects for main extensions and an upgrade to the enterprise software system, as well as various replacements and improvements to infrastructure and routine items.

LIFE CHANGING MEDICINE

In a move that strengthens and improves access to high-quality orthopaedic care across central Pennsylvania, UPMC and the Orthopedic Institute of Pennsylvania (OIP) have formalized a new strategic partnership. Building upon decades of collaboration between the two leaders in musculoskeletal health, the partnership is designed to deliver exceptional, patient-centered care closer to home while also expanding access to orthopaedic services. UPMC's orthopaedic network will continue to be a combination of employed and independent physicians.

MEMBER SPOTLIGHT

Dustin Queary- Co Owner
Adventure In Fun - Captivating Creatures
 717.334.7528 | adventureinfun.com

Let's Meet Dustin with Adventure in Fun and Captivating Creatures!

For more than 20 years, Dustin Queary has worn many hats in his family's business, Adventure in Fun. He's twisted balloons, performed as costumed characters, walked on stilts, and now serves as an exotic animal wrangler with the Captivating Creatures show.

After living in Germany for a time, Queary's family moved to Adams County in 2004, when he was 14. His mother, Shonna Flanigan—the founder of Adventure in Fun—was then working at a costume and tuxedo shop in Frederick, Maryland. That job evolved into balloon deliveries and singing telegrams. Along the way, she was inspired by a local clown who taught her the basics of balloon animals. The joy those creations sparked became the foundation of her own business.

"Our approach and offerings have grown and changed over the years, but our mission and values have stayed the same," Queary said. "We endeavor to bring more joy, adventure, and fun to any occasion, no matter how big or small. The world is much more fun when everyone is smiling."

Today, Adventure in Fun offers everything from costumed characters, face painting, and caricatures to airbrush tattoos, stilt walking, exotic animal shows, and more. But it all began with balloons—a huge pillar of the company's success.

"Balloons have allowed us to travel the world. They've taken our company to every continent except Antarctica!" Queary said proudly. "They were also the primary source of income for our family during my teen years."

That growth has allowed the business to employ others in the community and expand even further. Today, Adventure in Fun supports more than 100 independent subcontractors.

In 2012, Queary began focusing on presenting reptiles through live educational shows called Captivating Creatures. His first performance was for a preschool in 2007, and he quickly discovered how much he enjoyed sharing his passion for reptiles with others.

"My mother saw the opportunity for me to build a career sharing my fascination and joy for these animals," Queary said. "Now we're so busy during the summer months that we often refer people to colleagues—because the animals need rest too!"

As the business continues to grow, the family emphasizes the importance of enjoying their work. For Queary, that comes naturally.

"My favorite part is hearing someone's vision and bringing it to life—often in ways they never imagined. That's why I still love creating balloon art," he said. "And of course, getting to play a Viking, pirate, or dinosaur wrangler is always a lot of fun too."

Work is constant, with shows and events booked year-round. But the joy of making people smile, laugh, or even overcome their fears—whether by petting a snake or holding an alligator for the first time—keeps the family energized.

"One of the best things is hearing that I've inspired others to follow their passions, just like my mother inspired me," Queary said.

As someone doing business in Adams County, how does the chamber help you?

We have made so many wonderful connections, partnerships and friendships that the chamber has facilitated. That is one of the perks of a small town. Everyone knows everyone and can connect you with the right people.

ADVOCACY UPDATES

HEALTHY RURAL COMMUNITIES PRIORITY OF SPARC ACT CONGRESSMAN JOHN JOYCE

Communities throughout the country, particularly in rural areas, are experiencing a critical shortage of medical professionals, which is jeopardizing the ability of families to get the care they need.

In response to this accelerating crisis, I have introduced bipartisan legislation to support specialty physicians serving our rural communities through the Specialty Physicians Advancing Rural Care (SPARC) Act. This legislation would create a student loan repayment program for specialty physicians who practice in rural areas.

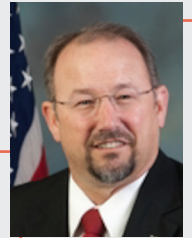

Undeniably, rural communities throughout the country are facing a rising physician shortage, creating barriers to care for patients with already limited options. By creating a student loan repayment program for specialty physicians serving in rural areas, we can incentivize physicians and bridge the gap caused by the physician shortage.

The SPARC Act is a new, practical, and innovative solution that benefits practitioners, patients, families, and communities alike. My colleagues in Congress and I firmly believe that targeted incentives to medical professionals will inspire them to practice in underserved areas that need them most.

The SPARC Act represents a long-term investment in workforce programs that are essential for the care of our nation's most vulnerable populations.

I am extremely proud to sponsor this impactful legislation.

AG PROGRESS DAYS - A CELEBRATION OF PENNSYLVANIA AGRICULTURE REPRESENTATIVE DAN MOUL

I attended Ag Progress Days, Pennsylvania's largest outdoor agricultural exposition, hosted by Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences. In its 49th year, the three-day event at the Russell E. Larson Agricultural Research Center near State College, featured over 400 exhibitors from the United States and Canada, and showcased educational programs, current research, and the latest innovations in agricultural equipment and technology.

As Republican chairman and a long-time member of the House Agriculture and Rural Affairs Committee, I participated in a joint House/Senate Agriculture Committee meeting at Ag Progress Days, which sought to address pressing issues concerning Pennsylvania's No.1 industry. Concerns raised by the agriculture community included labor shortages, permitting delays, and threats to crops and livestock.

I also serve on the board of directors of the Center for Rural Pennsylvania, which held its monthly board meeting in State College during Ag Progress Days.

PHONE SCAMS ARE GETTING SNEAKIER—THANKS TO AI

Written by Shannon McCleary, TREYSTA Marketing & Account Manager

We've all had that moment when the phone rings and the number looks familiar. Maybe it's your bank or the local county courthouse so you pick it up. The voice on the other end even sounds official, urgently demanding a payment. Scammers are "spoofing" official numbers, claiming you've got unpaid charges and pushing you to pay immediately. (Spoofing is when a caller uses an official number to hide their real identity.)

The truth is, no legitimate court or bank will ask for payment information—credit cards, gift cards, bank accounts, anything—via a surprise phone call.

If you get a suspicious call, hang up and report it to local police or the PA Attorney General's Bureau of Consumer Protection.

Adding to this, scammers are increasingly using artificial intelligence (AI) to create fake voices that sound real. This technology can clone a person's voice from just a short clip—sometimes pulled from social media—and use it in real time to convince you the caller is a loved one, a trusted official, or even a coworker. That means the voice on the other end might sound exactly like someone you know, even though it's not them. Phone scams are becoming more and more sophisticated and they're catching people off guard every day.

You may have seen a story recently making headlines called the "grandparent scam". WGAL.com reported a case in Franklin County about an elderly couple who was tricked into withdrawing a large sum of money after receiving a call from someone claiming to be their grandchild in trouble. The scammers went as far as arranging transportation to the bank which resulted in the couple losing $18,000. Luckily, federal authorities uncovered the operation and have charged thirteen people in the scam.

"If you get a suspicious call, hang up and report it..."

What makes these scams so scary is that they prey on urgency, fear, and love. One of the simplest defenses is agreeing on a "code word" to confirm identities—this can work for both families and businesses.

Fraudsters often pose as vendors, clients, or executives in "CEO fraud" calls too, demanding urgent wire transfers or sensitive data from businesses. If the caller doesn't know your code word, hang up.

Remember, it's best to slow down and verify the story through another source. If something feels off, you should hang up and call the person back using a known, trusted number—never the one provided in the suspicious call. Refusing to be pressured can really make all the difference, too. Stay vigilant when it comes to AI voice scams!
